

Confucius Institute in Coquitlam successfully held the “CTCSOL” online test

Due to the impact of the epidemic, Confucius Institute in Coquitlam has suspended the examination of the CTCSOL (Certificate for Teachers of Chinese to Speakers of Other Languages) for two years. This year, Confucius Institute in Coquitlam applied to Chinese Testing International for the online test of the CTCSOL and was approved. On April 16, 2022, we successfully held the first home-based online test, which attracted nearly 50 candidates. After that, the online interview of CTCSOL was successfully held on July 1, 2, 8 and 9, 2022. A total of 56 candidates participated in the interview. The examiners for this interview are all from South China Normal University, the Chinese partner of the Confucius Institute in Coquitlam. With their superb professional knowledge and rich interview experience, the examiners made this online interview a great success.

Confucius Institute in Coquitlam test center will also hold a home-based online written test and interview in the second half of this year, continuing to provide Canadian candidates with a convenient test method.

